

1. Touch the tip of your tongue to the little ridge below your lower teeth. 	2. Now roll the rest of your tongue forward so that the middle of the tongue touches that little ridge in the roof of your mouth. 	3. Now say, “Très bien.” The “T” sound should be made not with the tip of your tongue but by the contact between the middle of your tongue and that top ridge. Make the D, L, N and T sounds here.
Because the bulk of your tongue is rolled forward, you can finally make the raspy R sound in “très” really far back in your throat. 	Keep your tongue down and forward. Never let the tongue float up, as you would to say the English word “red.” 	Keep the gap between your tongue and the roof of your mouth narrow. For the “S” sound, let the tongue float up to inside of the lower teeth.
